The journey consists of 3 inter-related phases starting in the very same time:

- discovery of the place with its tangible and intangible aspects combined by excursions/seminars and a process of mapping – representation the individual and group experience to address the right to the city / right to the citizen / right to the culture / right to the nature...

a collaborative work with the Landscape Studio

- development of an urban & architectural scenario-programme supported by workshops and lectures.

- design process is developed by a series of workshops (structural games; technological issues; lectures and panel on design, critical and creative design thinking).

The active participation to the design journey and systematic and regular production in the studio define the studio.
